Compounds with some and any

Regeln und Übungen zur Verwendung von some und any inklusive der Zusammensetzungen: somebody, anybody, something, anything, somewhere, anywhere,...

Regeln:

Du benutzt some in positiven Sätzen und any in verneinten Sätzen. Dies gilt auch für die Zusammensetzungen.

someone / somebody:

Someone wird verwendet, wenn wir diese Person nicht kennen und es viele Personen gibt, die in Frage kommen. Somebody wird verwendet, wenn man sich an eine Person aus einem kleinen Kreis von Personen wendet (Beispiel: Die Auswahl ist beschränkt auf Klassenkameraden / Mitglieder einer Gruppe / Familienmitglieder / ...)

Besonderheiten:

1. Bei Angeboten und Bitten verwendet man some (und seine Zusammensetzungen = Compounds) auch in Fragen.
 - „Would you like some cheese?“ – Angebot
 - „Could you pass me the salt, please?“ – Bitte

Man geht hier von einer positiven Antwort aus, beziehungsweise würde man das Angebot ja nicht zurückziehen.

2. In Verbindung mit: never, without und hardly wird any auch in positiven Sätzen verwendet!
 - Peter is old enough to do his homework without any help.
